

Abstract

A process for producing an adhesive tape with a stripe-shaped application of the adhesive on a backing material, where the backing web is guided past a dip roll which is in contact with the backing web, the roll rotates in a bath of adhesive, thereby transferring the adhesive to the roll surface, the roll is designed such that after the roll has run through the bath at least one stripe on the roll surface is adhesive-free.